WEAK, WEARY WOMEN

Learn the Cause of Daily Wear and Endure Them.

When the back aches and throbs, When housework is torture, When night brings no rest nor sleep, When urinary disorders set in, Women's lot is a weary one. There is a way to escape these woes. Doan's Kidney Pills cure such ills. Have cured women here in Barre. This is one Barre woman's testimony.

Mrs. J. L. Cummings of 80 Elm Street, Barre, Vt., says: "About three years ago I began to have serious attacks of kidney trouble. The worst symptom was a sharp stitch just over my hips, the effects would last for about three days. During these attacks I could not sleep nights and could hardly get about the house at all. If I caught cold it settled across my back and aggravated the trouble. I used a good many remedies, but nothing gave me so much relief as Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at E. A. Brown's drug store. They relieved the pain and strengthened my back and proved in every way a valuable kidney medicine. It is six months since I have had any backache and I am beginning to think that the cure is going to be permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

China's District of Foreigners.

Mr. Fraser, the British consul-general at Hankow, warns the British public that the present foreign trade of Great Britain with the Chinese is maintained with the utmost difficulty. The spirit of opposition to foreign enterprise in the country, he says, is now manifesting itself among all classes of the Chinese people after a fashion that does not admit of two interpretations. The foreigners from the west are no longer enjoying the privileged position in regard to land concessions or trade facilities to which he has long been accustomed. Japan appears to figure considerably in this change of things. The former dislike for the Japanese, according to Consul Fraser, has been transformed into keen admiration, and the latter has now the advantage not only of his geographical position, but of his kinship and similarity in thought and custom, which particularly fit him for penetrating into the interior and making his way into the shops and towns and villages of China, whereas no one ever visits a treaty port.—United States consular reports.

Remarkable Wreck-Raising.

A somewhat unusual operation in wreck-raising has been carried out in Kiel harbor. Some time since the torpedo boat S. 126 sank in port after a collision with another war vessel, and notwithstanding the known condition of the sunken boat, the authorities decided to have it brought to the surface. For this purpose two floating cranes of formidable dimensions were utilized, and the broken and twisted hull was fished up from the depths and swung through the air like a ball of merchandise to a lighter, on which it was laid. The boat was of steel, and it is proposed seriously to essay to turn the apparently inextinguishable mass to some use.—London Globe.

We learn that a Uuphagist is a man who refuses to take anything seriously at meal times. If a careless attendant spills hot soup down the back of his neck the Uuphagist temporarily stops supping, that is all.—London News.

IDE REPLIES TO HARTY

Defends Action On Church Property

NO LITIGATION INTENDED

He Declares That the Agitation Will Fail — The Result of Threats Will Not Please Insular Catholics.

Manila, June 29.—The publication in the United States of Archbishop Harty's letter of February 20 to Governor Ide concerning the submission to the courts of the question of the title of the San Juan de Dios property has led Governor Ide to publish his reply of March 2 to Archbishop Harty. Governor Ide took umbrage at the following in the archbishop's letter: "Before going in to court as a peaceful American citizen I shall have read simultaneously in 250 pulpits a solemn protest against this attempted confiscation. This protest will go through the archipelago and will reach the White House. It will surely be taken up by the American people. This step has not yet been taken and time still remains to recall your order."

Governor Ide's reply states that the matter rests on two opinions given by the attorney general in 1902, but that no action has yet been taken. The governor says in his reply: "A portion of your letter produced a painful impression upon me. It was what seemed to contain a threat that the course you will take through the Philippines will excite hostility against the government. I agree that if your action should go through the archipelago it would reach the doors of the White House, but I am certain that the result would be far other than the one you had in mind. The government has not renewed litigation, nor in any new pending."

DEATH OF RUSSIAN AUTOCRACY.

How the "Little Father" Looked When He Read His Memorial Speech.

Vance Thompson, in his brilliant article, "The Dawn of Russian Liberty," in the July Everybody's, thus describes the Tsar's already famous appearance in the winter palace, preceding the drama's first meeting:

"The little Tsar is left alone. For a moment he does not move. An immense space has been made around him. Then with an effort, it seems, the Tsar begins his long, solitary march, the length of which, toward the throne, he bows slightly to right and left—the glided dignitaries abuse themselves; the deputies stare at him with eyes troubled, skeptical, bewildered. And who would not stare at this little green figure, strutting with short-legged dignity, through splendor so barbaric, to the theatrical throne? A somber, little man! With care not to disarrange the purple mantle he sits down upon the throne. A chamberlain hands him a paper. He glances it over and rises; and in a steady, metallic voice he reads the speech from the throne. Now and then the even flow of words is broken by a stress of emphasis; but he makes no gestures. Very calm, without visible emotion, he recites the words which, though he knows it not, strip him of his autocracy, and free one hundred and forty millions of men he has held in the hollow of his hand."

A National Recreation Day.

"Success Magazine suggests a national 'recreation day' to occur each year about May 30, the present Memorial day to fall thereafter upon Sunday. In view of the departure of Memorial day from its original purpose of remembrance of the dead and its complete giving up to sport, this suggestion is a very timely one. Memorial day, by all ways falling upon Sunday, will retain its true semi-religious character. On the other hand, the spirit of sport is so strong that in the early summer a day given up to out-door recreation is the logical outgrowth of our habits of life. It is likely that this suggestion will meet with wide approval."

All 'Round Benevolence.
